Dear Valued Friends, Colleagues & Customers,

2024 marks the commencement of our 36th year in business! We take immense pride in the establishment of our nursery, a feat made possible by the tremendous efforts of our dedicated team, many of whom have been integral members for numerous years. We are excited to start another season dedicated to producing premium plant materials for the Philadelphia area.

For those who haven't experienced our nursery or have not visited in quite some time, now is the opportune moment! Our expansive 11-acre nursery offers something for everyone - whether you're filling a window box, cultivating a native meadow, installing foundation plantings, or enhancing existing beds with groundcover. Come stop by and take a golf cart ride through our nursery; you'll undoubtedly find it to be a rewarding experience!

Over the past five years, our perennial production in Quart containers has witnessed significant growth. The trend towards mass planting perennial gardens has led our customers to appreciate the efficiency of quart-sized materials. Shipping becomes more streamlined, handling plants on-site is more manageable, and the installation process accelerates. Opting for our Quart program allows you to maximize your budget, providing an opportunity to fill your gardens with beautiful materials at approximately half the cost of a One-Gallon container. Give our Quart program a try - you'll be delighted with the results!

Explore our Catalog for a comprehensive list of MOST plants we will be cultivating in 2024. Our website always features Current Availability, and it's worth noting that we often grow more plants than listed. Feel free to reach out to us for inventory inquiries. Wishing you a fantastic 2024 - stay healthy, happy, and keep your gardens looking beautiful! Heartfelt gratitude to all for decades of supporting our family and our business.

Warm Regards,

The Wright Family and The Clearview Nursery Team

GROUND COVER

Ground covers are low-growing, spreading plants that provide a blanket of color & texture to your garden beds and slopes. They help to prevent soil erosion, conserve moisture, & suppress weed growth while adding a touch of beauty to your landscape. Current availability is subject to change, there is more being grown than what is listed.

Our family has been producing quality ground cover for over 40 years. Our plants are propagated in-house and grown in a variety of sizes and containers to suit the needs of our clientele. Large quantities of all ground cover are available year-round.

Size Descriptions:

Peat Pots (2 ¼" PP):

2 ¼" peat-moss based pots are sold in flats of 50 plants. Each plant should be individually planted WITH the pot which will break down a few weeks after the installation. As growers, we strongly recommend the use of peat pots over rooted cuttings. When using this method, the plants are not disturbed, and continue growing in the same medium as when they left our nursery. Success rate is substantially increased when using peat pots.

3.5" Pots (3.5" pot):

Three and one-half inch square plastic pots are sold in trays of 18 plants/pots per tray. Plants sold in this container size are well rooted and ready for installation.

Rooted Cuttings (R.C.):

Propagated cuttings are rooted in a professional mix designed to promote the growth of a healthy root system. Flats are sold with 100 cuttings each. Extra care is recommended when landscaping with rooted cuttings and consistent watering is necessary until plants are established.

ROCK GARDEN

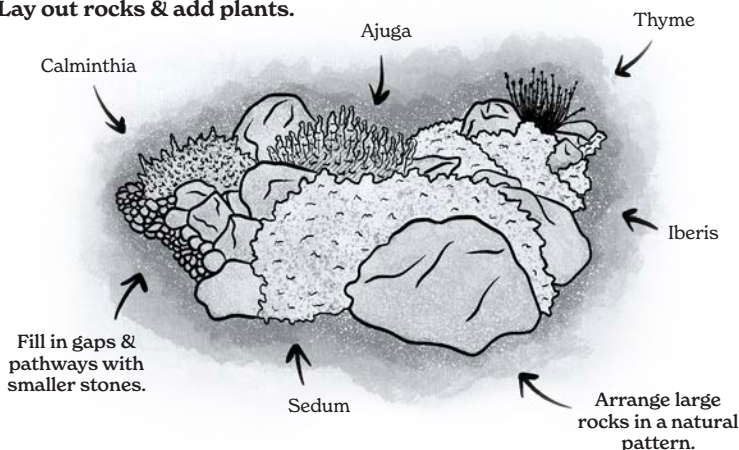

Some of the best plants to include in a rock garden are those that are native or well-adapted to the region's climate and soil conditions. They require minimal watering and weeding, making them ideal for gardeners who want a beautiful outdoor space without a lot of work. Current availability is subject to change, there is more being grown than what is listed.

Helpful Tips:

Building a rock garden is a great way to add texture, interest, and a touch of nature to your yard. In addition to being low-maintenance, rock gardens can also provide a haven for drought-resistant plants and wildlife. Here are the steps to build your own rock garden:

1. Pick a spot that has plenty of sun, well-draining soil, & good visibility.
2. Clear the site, level the ground & add compost to improve the soil.
3. Lay out rocks & add plants.

RAIN GARDEN

Rain garden plants are a must-have for gardeners looking to promote water conservation and improve local water quality. These hardy plants are specially adapted to thrive in damp soils and help absorb rainfall, reducing runoff and promoting healthy waterways. Current availability is subject to change, there is more being grown than what is listed.

Rain Garden Benefits:

Whether you're looking to create a low-maintenance garden or just want to add some greenery to a damp area, rain garden plants offer a range of benefits, including:

- 1. Water Conservation: Rain garden plants help filter and absorb rainfall, reducing runoff and promoting water conservation.
- 2. Environmental Responsibility: By promoting healthy waterways and reducing runoff, rain garden plants contribute to a healthier and more sustainable environment.
- 3. Aesthetic Appeal: With a wide range of shapes, sizes, and colors, rain garden plants bring beauty and diversity to any landscape.
- 4. Low Maintenance: Rain garden plants are adapted to damp conditions and require little upkeep, making them a low-maintenance and environmentally-friendly choice for any gardener.

BEES, BIRDS & BUTTERFLIES

Incorporating plants to attract wildlife into your home landscape can provide numerous benefits for both you and the environment. These plants provide essential food and habitat for these important pollinators, helping to support healthy ecosystems. Current availability is subject to change, there is more being grown than what is listed.

Wildlife Benefits:

Pollinators like bees, butterflies, and hummingbirds play a critical role in our ecosystems and food supply. Some benefits include:

- 1. Control Pests: Certain bird species feed on insect pests.
- 2. Important Pollinators: Bees play a critical role, increasing the yield of crops.
- 3. Beauty to Your Garden: Butterflies are attractive, colorful insects that add beauty to gardens and bring life to outdoor spaces.
- 4. Spread Seeds: Many bird species feed on fruits and berries, then spread the seeds through their droppings, leading to new plants and increasing biodiversity.

MOISTURE TOLERANT

Moisture-tolerant plants are a valuable addition to any garden, especially for those in regions with high rainfall or poor drainage. These hardy plants are adapted to thrive in wet soils and can provide a lush and verdant landscape even in damp conditions. Current availability is subject to change, there is more being grown than what is listed.

Aconitum	Digitalis	Monarda
Alchemilla	Eupatorium	Phlox divaricata
Anemone	Ferns	Physostegia

Convallaria	Mazus

GRASSES

Acorus
Calamagrostis
Carex
Chasmanthium
Juncus
Miscanthus

Common Solutions:

Moisture-tolerant plants are an excellent solution for a variety of common landscape problems, including:

- 1. Poor Soil Drainage: Moisture-tolerant plants are adapted to growing in soils that retain water, making them ideal for low-lying areas with poor drainage.
- 2. Storm water Management: Moisture-tolerant plants can help absorb and filter rainfall, reducing runoff and promoting water conservation.
- 3. Shaded Areas: Moisture-tolerant plants are well-suited for shaded areas, where soil moisture levels are typically higher.
- 4. Waterside Gardens: Plants that are tolerant of wet soils are ideal for waterside gardens, where flooding can be a common issue.

DROUGHT TOLERANT

Drought-tolerant plants are a smart and sustainable choice for gardeners, especially in areas with limited water resources. Current availability is subject to change, there is more being grown than what is listed.

GRASSES

Acorus	Muhlenbergia
Bouteloua gracilis	Panicum
Calamagrostis	Schizachyrium
Carex	Sesleria autumnalis
Chasmanthium	Stipa tenuissima
Juncus
Miscanthus

Common Solutions:

Drought-tolerant plants are a solution to several common problems, including:

- 1. Water Scarcity: Drought-tolerant plants require less water and are adapted to survive in arid conditions, making them a smart choice for regions with limited water resources.
- 2. High Water Bills: By reducing the need for supplemental irrigation, drought-tolerant plants can help lower water bills and conserve valuable water resources.
- 3. Soil Erosion: Ground covers, such as drought-tolerant succulents and grasses, can help prevent soil erosion on slopes and in garden beds.
